1. INTRODUCTION

Section 9 of Regulation 1971/275 made under the Health Care Insurance Plan Act (the "Regulation") provides payment for insured health services rendered by medical practitioners to insured persons. Such payment is set out in this Payment Schedule for Yukon (the "Payment Schedule") and administered by the Yukon Health Care Insurance Plan ("YHCIP"). The Payment Schedule is an integral part of the Memorandum of Understanding that is negotiated between the Government of Yukon, Department of Health and Social Services and the Yukon Medical Association.

Use of the Payment Schedule requires awareness and application of explanatory notes, claim submission rules as detailed in this Preamble, and rules contained in the Regulation.

All insured health services listed in the Payment Schedule, except where specific exceptions are identified, include all of the following parts of the service being claimed, and payment for these parts are included in the listed fee codes:

(a Direct face-to-face encounter with the patient by the medical practitioner or as part of an approved delegated service or through approved remote technology, appropriate physical examination when pertinent to the service, and on-going monitoring of the patient's condition during the encounter, where indicated;

(b Any inquiry of the patient or other source, including reviewing available medical records as necessary to arrive at an opinion as to the nature and/or history of the patient's condition;

(c Appropriate care of the patient's conditions, as specifically listed in the Payment Schedule for the service and as traditionally and/or historically expected for the service rendered;

(d Arranging for any related assessments, procedures and/or therapy as may be appropriate, and interpreting the results, except where separate fee codes are applicable to these adjunctive services;

(e Arranging for any follow-up care that may be appropriate;

(f) Discussion with and providing advice and information to the patient or the patient's representative(s) regarding the patient's condition and recommended therapy, including advice as to the results of any related assessments, procedures and/or therapies which may have been arranged. Exceptions are fee codes that are specified in the Payment Schedule, e.g., fee codes 14015, 14016, 0070 and 0188, that may be claimed for such advice or discussion; and

(g Making and maintaining an adequate medical record of the encounter that supports appropriately the service being claimed

3. ADMINISTRATIVE ITEMS

(a Fees Payable by The Yukon Health Care Insurance Plan

The fees listed in the Payment Schedule are the amounts payable by YHCIP for insured health services rendered by medical practitioners to insured persons, but do not include any service that a person is entitled to or eligible for under any other Act, including in relation to Worker's Compensation or any Act of the Parliament of Canada, other than the Canada Health Act.

The Fee Liaison Committee is responsible for resolving issues of interpretation and making recommendations regarding new fee codes, amendments to existing items and re-evaluation of existing items.

Individual medical practitioners have the right to communicate directly with the Medical Advisor to YHCIP or the President of the YMA on any fee matter, giving details of the reason for their method of billing or dispute.

Services requested or required by a "third party" for other than medical requirements are not insured under YHCIP. Services such as consultations, laboratory investigations, anesthesiology, and surgical assistance, rendered solely in association with other services which are not benefits, also are not considered benefits, unless a special circumstance is approved by the Director of Insured Health and Hearing Services.

No fee above or in addition to the Payment Schedule may be charged to either YHCIP or to the patient for insured health services.

(b Adequate Medical Records

In the absence of an adequate medical record to support the service claimed, the amount payable will be reduced to an appropriate amount for the service reflected in the record.

An adequate medical record is a necessary component of every insured physician service. A medical record is not adequate unless:

i. It contains all information which is required in the Payment Schedule for the service; and

ii. Another medical practitioner of the same practice category or specialty, who is unfamiliar with both the patient and the attending medical practitioner, would be able to determine the following from the record and/or the patient's medical records from previous encounters:

a. Date and location of service;

b. Identification of the patient and attending medical practitioner;

c. Presenting complaint(s) and presenting symptoms and signs, including their history;

d. The relevant results, both negative and positive, of a systemic enquiry, pertinent positive and negative findings;

e. Results of any investigation carried out during the encounter; and
f. Summation of the problem and plan for management.

(c Independent Consideration – Unscheduled Fee Items

For unusually complex procedures, for established but infrequently performed procedures, which are not listed in the Payment Schedule, for unlisted "team" procedures, for serious complications or coincidental non-related illness where additional care is required beyond that which would normally be recognized as included in the listed service, or for any medically required service for which the medical practitioner seeks special consideration to be given by the Director of Insured Health and Hearing Services, a claim may be submitted for independent consideration.

If a fee exists for a service provided in the Payment Schedule, the physician shall bill this fee.

In the instance of independent consideration, the physician shall provide the Medical Advisor a letter of request, a copy of the operative report and/or clinical record for the particular visit(s) or service(s) for consideration of payment.

For the purpose of billing for Independent consideration a fee item number is designated by taking the first digit of the item in the applicable section of the Payment Schedule, and adding the digits 999 (e.g. General Surgery 7999, Obstetrics/Gynecology 4999).

Claims submitted for independent consideration will be re-assessed in relation to services of similar responsibility, skill, complexity, duration, and the legislation that guides the delivery of insured health services.

(d Services to Family and Household Members

The Regulation provides that services are not insured if a medical practitioner provides them to him or herself or to their dependents. The following are dependents for this purpose:

i. Spouse/partner, common-law spouse
ii. Son or daughter
iii. Step-son or step-daughter
iv. Parent or step-parent
v. Mother-in-law or father-in-law
vi. Grandparent
vii. Grandchild
viii. Brother or Sister
ix. Spouse of a person referred in ii through ix.

(e Delegated Procedures

Procedures which are generally and traditionally accepted as those which may be carried out by a nurse, nurse practitioner, or a medical assistant in the employ of a medical practitioner are, when so performed, only insured health services when the performance of the procedure is under the direct supervision of the medical practitioner or a designated alternate medical practitioner with equivalent qualifications. Direct supervision requires that, during the procedure, the medical practitioner be physically present in the office or clinic at which the service is rendered. While this does not preclude the medical practitioner from being otherwise occupied, they must be in personal attendance to ensure that procedures are being performed competently and they must at all times be available immediately to improve, modify or otherwise intervene in a procedure as required in the best interest of the patient. Billing for these procedures also implies that the medical practitioner is taking full responsibility for their medical necessity and for their quality.

Procedures in this context do not include visit type services, such as examinations/ assessments, consultations, psychotherapy counselling or telehealth services, which for payment purposes may not be delegated.

Complete understanding of the following paragraphs is essential to proper interpretation of the Guide

Procedures in this context do not include visit type services, such as examinations/ assessments, consultations, psychotherapy counselling or telehealth services, which for payment purposes may not be delegated.

(f) Missed Appointments

Missed appointments are non-insured services and not billable to YHCIP.

(g Uninsured Medical Services

A list of non-insured services is set out in the Regulation.

(h Yukon Physician Billing Number

A billing number consists of two numbers - a payment and a practitioner number. The payment number identifies the person or party to whom payment will be directed by YHCIP. The practitioner number identifies the practitioner performing and taking responsibility for the service. Each claim submitted must include both a practitioner number and payment number.

(i) Medical Research

The cost of medical services (such as examinations by medical practitioners, laboratory procedures, other diagnostic procedures) that are provided solely for the purposes of research or experimentation are not the responsibility of IHHS. However, it is recognized that medical research may involve what is generally considered to be accepted therapies or procedures, and the fact that a therapy or procedure is performed as part of a research study or protocol does not preclude it from being a service insured by IHHS.

Medical services that are provided for the purpose of what is considered by IHHS to be experimental medicine are not insured health services.

4. TYPES OF SERVICE

(a Telehealth Services

“Telehealth Service or Telemedicine” means a health service delivered remotely by a medical practitioner by way of live video technology. Both the site from which the video is transmitted and the site at which it is received must be approved and publicly funded telehealth locations.

“Video technology” means the recording, reproducing, and broadcasting of live visual images utilizing a direct interactive video link with a patient. The service is only an insured health service if the patient is in attendance at the transmitting site at the time of the video transmission. Only those services which are designated specifically as “telehealth or telemedicine services” are insured health services. Telehealth services do not include tele-radiology or tele-ultrasound.

Where a receiving medical practitioner, after having provided a telehealth consultation to a patient, decides s/he must examine the patient in person, the subsequent visit is a limited consultation, unless more than 6 months have passed since the telehealth consultation.

Where a telehealth service is interrupted due to technical failure, and is not able to be resumed within a reasonable period of time, and therefore is unable to be completed, the fee is payable on the basis of independent consideration with appropriate substantiating information.

Telehealth services are subject to a maximum of once per patient/per day/per medical practitioner, except where the subsequent service complies with all Payment Schedule criteria for multiple visits. See the appropriate section of the Payment Schedule for specific fee codes and further criteria.

(b Visits and Examinations

i. Complete Examination

A complete physical examination requires a complete detailed history and physical examination of all parts and systems with special attention to local examination where clinically indicated, adequate record of findings and, if necessary, discussion with patient. The above should include complaints, history present and past illness, family history, personal history, functional inquiry physical examination, differential diagnosis and provisional diagnosis.

Routine or periodic complete physical examination is an insured service as a periodic health examination of a patient 40 years of age or greater.

ii. Counselling

Counselling is defined as a discussion with the patient, caregiver, spouse, or relative which:

1. is rendered personally by the physician, and not by a delegate;
2. meets or exceeds the minimum time requirement of the listing; and
3. is about a difficult and complex medical condition, including the management of malignant disease.

Routine advice that is a normal component of any visit does not constitute counselling.

In-depth education including weight management, lifestyle and smoking cessation are eligible for payment of a counselling visit.
Explanation of the results of diagnostic tests does not constitute counselling.

Counselling is not a supplemental payment in the event that an examination or treatment is prolonged, or for multiple complaints.

(c Consultations

i) General

A consultation applies when a medical practitioner or other health care practitioner, in light of their professional knowledge of the patient and because of the complexity, obscurity or seriousness of the case, requests the opinion of a medical practitioner competent to give advice in this field.

More than one consultation may be requested where the medical indications are of such complexity that concurrent services of more than one consultant are required for adequate care of the patient.

A service constitutes a consultation only where the referring practitioner provides the consulting physician with a letter of referral that includes the reason for the request and the relevant background information on the patient, and the consulting physician prepares and renders to the referring practitioner a written report which includes his or her findings, opinions and recommendations.

A new and clearly unrelated diagnosis can be billed as a full consultation without regard to the passage of time since the consultant has last billed any visit for the patient.

ii) Restrictions

A consultation for the same diagnosis is not a full consultation unless an interval of at least six months has passed since the consultant has been paid a full consultation and received a new referral.

A limited consultation may be payable within the six-month interval, if medically necessary, and a consultation has been specifically requested.

No consultation should be charged to YHCIP unless the referring practitioner requests the consultation.

Consultations by specialists and/or other specialty-limited services are limited to medical practitioners who meet the definition of “specialist” in this Preamble, except for permitted consultations by General Practitioners, e.g., fee code 0124.

No other specialist qualifications will be recognized by YHCIP, and payments for visits and examinations rendered by licensed physicians not so qualified will be made on the basis of fees listed in the General Practice Section of the Payment Schedule.

iii) Limited Consultation

A limited consultation requires all of the components of a full consultation for that specialty, but is less demanding and normally requires substantially less of the medical practitioner’s time than a full consultation.

It is expected that the limited consultation, when medically necessary, will be billed as part of continuing care, and that a full consultation is not billed simply because of the passage of time.

(d iv) Special Consultation

Additional conditions may apply to specific types of consultations, as set out in the pertinent section of the Payment Schedule and/or the notes to the specific listings.

v) Continuing Care by Consultant

Once a consultation has been rendered and the written report submitted to the referring practitioner, this aspect of the care of the patient normally is returned to the referring practitioner. However, if by mutual agreement between the consultant and the referring practitioner, the complexities of the case are felt to be such that its management should remain for a time in the hands of the consultant, the consultant should claim for continuing care according to the Payment Schedule pertaining to the pertinent specialty.

Where the care of this aspect of the case has been transferred, except for a patient in hospital, the referring practitioner generally should not charge for this aspect of the patient’s care unless and until the full responsibility is returned to them. For hospitalized patients, supportive care may apply.

vi) Referral and Transferal

A referral is a request from a medical practitioner or health care practitioner to another medical practitioner to render a service with respect to a specific patient. Such service requests may involve a consultation, necessary investigations and procedures, and/or surgical or medical treatment plans.

Preamble

Complete understanding of the following paragraphs is essential to proper interpretation of the Guide

When the medical practitioner to whom a patient has been referred makes further referrals to other medical practitioners, it is the usual practice that the original referring practitioner be informed of these further referrals.

A transferal, as distinguished from a referral, involves the transfer of responsibility for the care of the patient temporarily or permanently.

The medical practitioner to whom a patient has been transferred normally should not bill a consultation for that patient. However, when the complexity or severity of the illness requires that the medical practitioner accepting the transfer reviews the records and examines the patient, a limited or full consultation may be billed when specifically requested by the transferring practitioner. In these cases, the consult shall be provided to the Medical Advisor for review.

A new consultation is not allowed when a group of physicians routinely working together provide call for each other.

vii) Intensive Care Units

(a) When a patient requires multiple consultations, a consultation fee may be charged by each consultant. Continuing care by a consultant or consultants must be clearly requested by the attending physician in charge. Any patient admitted to an Intensive Care Unit (“ICU”) is considered to be critically ill, therefore the attending physician who is coordinating the consultative services is entitled to charge up to three visits daily. Payments for additional visits will be considered when detailed case summary is provided. ¿

(b) Where a consultant or consultants are requested to see a patient or provide continuing care, the fee(s) shall relate the responsibility each consultant bears to the patient's treatment. ¿

(c) ICU billings (code 0138) may apply for care on wards other than in formal ICUs (e.g., newborn nursery, pediatric ward, outpost hospitals prior to transfer).

(e Hospital and Facility Visits

i) Hospital Examination and Admission

A hospital admission examination (fee code 1101, 0101 or 0116) may be claimed when a patient is admitted to a hospital by a medical practitioner.

ii) Subsequent Hospital Visit

A subsequent hospital visit is medically required routine monitoring and/or examination(s) that is necessary following a patient’s admission to an acute care hospital. Payments for subsequent hospital visits are subject to a maximum of one per patient per day for a period of up to 30 days, except when the patient is admitted to the hospital prior to 0800 hours.

If it is medically required for a patient to be visited more than once per day at any time, or daily beyond the initial 30-day period (e.g., if the patient is in one of the ICU wards), a written explanation must be submitted with the claim, and a request made for independent consideration.

iii) Long Stay Hospitalization

For long stays in hospital extending beyond 30 days, claims for subsequent hospital visits greater than two visits per patient per week shall be submitted with an explanation and a request for independent consideration.

iv) Directive Care

Complete understanding of the following paragraphs is essential to proper interpretation of the Guide

For those medical cases where the medical indications are of such complexity that the concurrent services of more than one medical practitioner are required for the adequate care of a patient, subsequent visits may be claimed by each medical practitioner as required for that care. To facilitate payment, claims must be accompanied by a written explanation and request for independent consideration.

v) Supportive Care

Supportive care to a hospitalized patient, e.g., liaison with the family, reassurance of the patient, is care provided by a physician(s) other than the Most Responsible Physician ("MRP"). Supportive care (fee code 0128) may be claimed daily, up to 30 days in hospital as deemed necessary by the MRP.

vi) Newborn in Hospital Care

Newborn care in hospital is the routine care of a well-baby and includes an initial complete assessment and examination. Newborn well-baby care in hospital is not payable to more than one medical practitioner for the same patient, except where a consultation is requested.

vii) Long Term Care Facility Visits

When face-to-face patient/medical practitioner encounters are required to patients in long-term-care facilities (such as nursing homes, intermediate care facilities and extended care units), these visits may be made to a maximum of two visits per week.

For acute illnesses requiring care facility visits beyond the foregoing limitations, additional visits may be claimed with an accompanying written explanation.

viii) Palliative Care

These fees are applicable for visits where, in the clinical judgment of the practitioner, patients have reached the palliative stage of a life-limiting disease or illness, with life expectancy of up to 6 months, and who consent to the focus of care being palliative. The fees are applicable to patients in acute care hospitals, hospice facilities, nursing or private homes.
The palliative care listings do not apply when unexpected death occurs after long hospitalization for a diagnosis unrelated to the cause of death.

ix) House Calls/Home Visits

A home visit is an insured health service when the patient cannot practically attend a medical practitioner's office and the complaint is serious or potentially serious enough to warrant a physician's assessment.

The details and the time of the call must be documented in the patient's clinical record. Time of the home visit must be included in the claim for payment to YHCIP.

(f) Missed Average Day Fee for Visiting Specialists

A claim for this fee must be accompanied by a letter documenting the circumstances where a complete clinic and/or OR day is cancelled due to unforeseen circumstances, including but not limited to work action, flooding, power outage. The fee paid will be the physician's average daily earnings from the most recent visiting clinic. Only Visiting Specialists licensed to practice in the Yukon who provide services through the Visiting Specialist Clinic or related satellite clinic are eligible to make a claim.

(g On Call Coverage

However, in order to participate each physician must commit to a minimum of 1 in 3 days of on-call coverage.

In circumstances where two (2) or fewer resident specialists are present in Yukon, their on-call obligations may be limited by illness, injury or other reasonable excuse (with notification and agreement of the Department) which precludes them from meeting their on-call obligations. In such event, a locum shall be arranged as soon as possible.

On-call coverage of less than 365 days a year is acceptable in each of these areas:
- Internal Medicine
- Orthopedics
- Psychiatry

5. ANESTHESIOLOGY

These listings are for the professional services for all types of anesthesia, whether provided by specialists a Family Practice Anesthetists (FPA) or Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons (FRCPC).FRCPC OR FPA, i.e., FP-anesthetists, and includes ordering pre-anesthetic medication, administering anesthesia, immediate post-anesthetic supportive measures, necessary post-anesthetic visits and follow-up. The total anesthetic fee is the sum of all applicable unit values and premiums as determined by the operative procedure(s) billed.

Units are divided into three categories, including for Epidural Anesthesia for Obstetrics:
Anesthetic evaluation unit,
Procedural fee unit, and Time unit.

The anesthetic evaluation unit compensates for the professional assessment of when a preoperative assessment has been done, whether or not an anesthetic is administered.

The procedural unit is listed opposite many diagnostic and surgical procedures. It is a modifying factor to compensate for the anesthetic service rendered. When submitting claims, the code number and description for the diagnostic or surgical fee code must be stated on the claim.

The time unit compensates for the time involvement in the total anesthetic service.
Anesthesia time begins when the anesthetist is first in attendance with the patient for the purpose of creating the anesthetic state, and ends when they no longer in personal attendance. The time the anesthetic commenced and the time it ended must be stated in the claim. One additional unit may be added at the beginning of each daily slate to allow for in-depth security check on anesthetic machines.

When multiple or bilateral procedures are done during the same anesthetic, the procedural units shall be the number listed for the procedure carrying the greatest number of units.

When the following modifying factors are utilized by a FRCPC in the administration of an anesthetic, charge additional for:¿a) Induced hypothermia, b) Controlled hypotension, c) Pump oxygenator,¿d) Prone position, e) Sitting position for intracranial or vertebral surgery.

Where unusual detention with the patient, and/or after anesthesia is essential for safety and welfare of such a patient, total time of the service must be reflected the on the claim including both start and end times.

Where the attendance of the anesthetist is requested by a medical attendant for the sole purpose of monitoring or special supportive care, and where the anesthetist is in constant attendance, the fee shall be 4 units plus time.

Anesthetist continuous attendance by request at any procedure for possible resuscitation and/or complementary anesthesia, is payable at the same rate as for the administration of anesthesia for the procedure.

Where two anesthetists are medically required in the interest of the patient each may claim the full fee. Claims must include a written statement outlining the relevant circumstances.

Anesthetic fees, including conscious sedation, are not payable in addition to surgical or orthopedic procedures when being provided at the same time by the same physician.

When providing anesthetic services for patients requiring airway intervention, neuraxial techniques and vascular access, the BMI modifier can be claimed in addition to the services rendered.

Preamble

Complete understanding of the following paragraphs is essential to proper interpretation of the Guide

(a Payment of Anesthesia when performed by the Surgeons

When a surgeon is required to administer an anesthetic in addition to performing a surgical procedure it is recommended that a charge NOT be made for the anesthesia in addition to the procedure performed. In emergency situations, it may be necessary for the surgeon to act as the anesthetist; a charge for such service should be accompanied by a written explanation of the circumstance by the surgeon concerned when billing payment.

(b Anesthetic Fees Not Included in the Payment Schedule

Such fees shall be determined equitably having regard to procedures of similar anesthetic responsibility, difficulty, and skill. When submitting an account to YHCIP, use fee item 1999 and state the reason for the charge. The foregoing also applies to anesthetic procedural units for surgical or diagnostic procedures charged under a miscellaneous 999 number.

(c After Hours Anesthesiology Premiums

Premiums are based on time seen by physician.

Evening (1800 - 2259): a 40% premium will be added to all anesthetic units associated with all emergency diagnostic procedures and operative surgical fees (whether diagnostic or therapeutic) performed during this time period.

Night (2300 - 0759): a 60% premium will be added to all anesthetic units associated with all emergency diagnostic procedures and operative surgical fees (whether diagnostic or therapeutic) performed during this time period.

NOTES:

(i) Premiums apply only to emergencies or to elective surgery, which because of intervening emergency surgery, commences within the designated times.

(ii) Premiums apply only to diagnostic/surgical procedure(s) requiring general, spinal or epidural anesthesiology and/or requiring at least 45 minutes of surgical time.

(iii) Evening Premium also applies during the hours of 0800 and 2259 on Saturday, Sunday and Statutory Holidays

6. DIAGNOSTIC AND THERAPEUTIC PROCEDURES

Preamble

Complete understanding of the following paragraphs is essential to proper interpretation of the Guide

These listings are for diagnostic and therapeutic procedures as set out in the Payment Schedule and may be claimed in addition to a consultation or other assessment/visit when performed during that visit. If, however, the procedure takes place on a subsequent visit arranged to perform the procedure, then the visit may not be claimed in addition.

Procedures designated as “extra” will be paid at 100 percent for the first “extra” and 50 percent for any additional procedures designated as “extra”. Should all procedures be designated as “extra” then the first procedure will be deemed a regular procedure and payment for the first subsequent “extra” will be at 100 percent and all others at 50 percent.

Special fees are listed for Diagnostic and Therapeutic procedures when performed in conjunction with another service. These fees are procedural fees only, and the fee for opinion, whether given as a consultation or as an office visit, will be charged in addition to the procedural fee. If the procedure augments a consultation, the consultant will indicate whether it was a major or limited consultation.

Diagnostic and Therapeutic procedural fees may be charged in addition to fees for surgical procedures where applicable. The surgical fee includes only those services detailed in paragraph 7.a. If two diagnostic procedures are done at the same time, whether in office or in hospital, the lesser should be billed at 50% of the listed fee. Repeat procedures done at separate times will be listed as separate procedural fees.

7. SURGERY

(a General

The fees for surgery, unless otherwise specifically indicated, include the surgical procedure itself in-hospital, post-operative follow-up, including removal of sutures and care of the operative wound by the surgeon or associate. Unless otherwise specifically indicated, the normal post-operative period included in the surgical fee is 14 days, and the surgery fees include all concomitant services necessary to perform the listed service (including preparation of the operative site, incision, exploration, review of the results of diagnostic tests and approved laboratory facility operative discussion with the patient and/or patient’s family).

When additional medical services are required, apart from services payable in the 14-day in-hospital post-operative period, such additional services are not part of the inclusive fee for the surgical procedure and may be billed separately. A written explanation is required to accompany claim for payment to YHCIP.

If a patient is referred for an opinion and this is followed by surgery, a consultation normally would be applicable. However, if a patient were referred specifically for the procedure, a limited, rather than a full consultation would normally be claimed.

(b Operation Only

For listings designated “operation only” the pre-operative and 14-day post-operative visits may be claimed in addition to the surgical procedure, with the exception of the visit(s) made on the day of the procedure.

(c Multiple Procedures

When two or more similar procedures (including bilateral procedures) are performed under the same anesthetic, or when two or more procedures are performed in the same general area, whether through the same incision, an extension of that incision or through separate incisions, the procedure with the greater listed fee may be claimed in full and the fees for the additional procedure are reduced to 75% percent, unless otherwise indicated by the Payment Schedule.

When done under separate anesthetics at staged intervals, the full fee should be charged for each operation.

When two different emergency procedures are done through separate incisions under the same anesthetic,

Complete understanding of the following paragraphs is essential to proper interpretation of the Guide each procedure should be charged at the full listed fees.

An emergency operation followed by a definite surgical procedure (e.g., cholecystotomy followed by cholecystectomy at a later date) should be charged as the full listed fee in each instance.

However, additional incidental surgery performed en passant (i.e., surgery which would not have been performed in the absence of the primary procedure, such as an appendectomy during abdominal surgery, or incidental cystectomy during gynecological surgery) is considered to be included in the fee for the planned procedure and may not be charged.

When two or more different procedures are performed through separate incisions under the same anesthetic, and repositioning or re-draping of the patient or more than one separately draped surgical operating field is medically/surgically required (because of the nature of the procedure and/or the safety of the patient), the procedure with the greater listed fee may be claimed in full and the fees for the additional such procedures are reduced to 50 percent, unless otherwise indicated by the Payment Schedule.

When two procedures are performed under the same anesthetic by two surgeons and both procedures are or should be within the competence of either one of the operators within the specialty or specialties, the total surgical fee claimed should be no more than that which would be payable if both procedures had been performed by one surgeon, plus one assistant's fee.

When two procedures are performed under the same anesthetic by two surgeons whose different specialty skills are required to perform both procedures, each surgeon may claim their specific services as if they were performed in isolation from the other surgeon. These surgeons are not eligible for assistant fees for assisting each other, however, unless each of the surgical procedures takes place consecutively instead of concurrently.

Certified surgical assistant: Where an operative assistant is required, he/she would ordinarily be a non-specialist. However, in certain selective instances of unusual technical difficulties, the services of a certified surgical assistant may be necessary. In only these instances should the fee for specialist assistant be applied. Consideration of payment will be made on the basis of a written document.

Surgical procedures, which are abandoned before completion of surgery, will be given independent consideration upon receipt of a written explanation and request for payment.

Additional surgery performed to correct an intra-operative injury(ies) which result from the complicated nature of the disease or significant pathology may be billed at 50%. When submitting a claim for a repair of an intra-operative injury, it must be supported by a letter of explanation for review by the Yukon Medical Advisor with a copy of the operative report. If the repair is performed by another surgeon, it may be billed at 100%.

(d Multiple Services

When the performance of a minor therapeutic or diagnostic procedure (e.g., intramuscular or intravenous injection or taking a specimen from the patient) is the purpose of the doctors' attendance in the office, hospital or on a house call, the charge made will be that listed for the procedure only.

Therapeutic and diagnostic procedures performed consequent to a visit or consultation shall be billed in addition to the visit or consultation.

Two or more endoscopic procedures performed under the same anesthetic – each procedure may be paid at 100%.

Preamble

8. FRACTURES AND TRAUMA

(a General

When multiple procedures for multiple fractures and/or soft tissue injuries are done by the same surgeon through different incisions, the greatest fee is payable at 100% and all subsequent fees at 75%. In cases of dissociated injuries for which the presence of one impedes the progress of another, or in the case of multiple major fractures (e.g., a fractured femur and tibia in the same limb), a full fee is payable for each (to a maximum of three). Adequate clinical evidence to support this charge must be submitted with the claim.

For open (compound) fractures, the primary wound management fee(s) are payable in addition to the fracture fee at the same percentage as applies to the fracture fees. These wound management fee items are exempt from the 14-day rule for procedures.

Secondary wound management fees may also be payable and are exempt from the 14-day rule. These primary and secondary wound management fees are only payable where fee items have been designated in a section's Payment Schedule of fees for specific open fractures or specified primary or secondary wound management of fractures.

For open reduction of fracture or dislocation when necessary, 50% extra is payable if a fee for open reduction is not listed.

Inclusive fees for fractures include the necessary application of casting, when applied before the expiry of the post-operative period.

Open reduction of old mal-united fracture may be payable at an additional 25% of the listed fee for open reduction of the equivalent new fracture.

External skeletal fixation with closed reduction may be payable at an additional 25% of the listed fee unless a specific fee item exists.

Any secondary amputation, excision or disarticulation may be charged at 50% of the listed fee for the primary procedure whenever performed.

(b Failed Procedure Requiring Re-manipulation

Any Re-manipulation by the same surgeon within four weeks will be considered inclusive and no payment shall be made.

Any Re-manipulation by a consultant surgeon should be charged at the full fee for the procedure.

Where a patient is referred to a consultant and re-manipulation is required, the attending physician who performed the initial or original attempt to reduce the fracture should charge 50% of the fee for the procedure he/she performed.

(c Casts

All casts may be charged in full in addition to the procedure and visit fees except that cast applied at the time of the initial procedure. In the minority of cases where application / change of cast is the sole purpose of the visit, a visit fee is not chargeable. Fees for application of casts are payable only when performed by the physician. Multiple casts (i.e., bilateral leg casts) are paid at 100%.
